

INTERVENTION WILL BE BLOW TO CUBANS

FORMER SECRETARY DECLARES THAT KNOX'S LETTER IS UNFORTUNATE FOR CUBA.

IS NOTE OF WARNING

Tranquillity Reigns in Havana in Spite of the Shock. Intervention Favored by Spanish Element.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 17.—Tranquillity reigns in Havana today despite the shock of the announcement in the morning papers of a possible intervention by the United States.

The reports received from the interior do not give any indications of trouble, but some fears are expressed in Havana that disturbances are likely to occur in the rural districts where the news becomes more generally circulated.

The newspapers confine themselves to the publication of the text of Secretary Knox's note and interviews on the subject with various officials. Commenting on Secretary Knox's note generally, Progreso Andrade, former secretary of the interior, said:

"It is a sad blow to all good Cubans, but we must hope it will sound a note of warning. All must join a patriotic effort to do their utmost to save the country."

No sudden was the action taken by the state department at Washington, that General Manuel Sanguilly, secretary of state, was notified, and that he was notified, and that he was notified.

Approved by Spanish. At the opening of the board of trade today the prospect of intervention by the United States was regarded generally with satisfaction, especially among the Spanish element.

Merchants almost unanimously expressed the opinion that the regulation of the affairs of Cuba by the United States would have the happiest effect immediately to stimulate business which has been depressed by the lack of confidence now prevailing throughout the country.

In Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—Having served notice on President Gomez that the United States expected Cuba to live up to her treaty obligations and maintain a republican form of government, the state department now is awaiting developments.

Officials here are confident that when the Cubans understand the motive of the United States is simply to discharge its treaty obligations, there will be little dissatisfaction outside of the Veterans' organization.

No well laid are the plans of the general staff of the army, that news of the possibility of intervention in Cuba has recently caused a ripple at the headquarters here.

OVER MILLION LOST IN BAD FIRE TODAY IN NEW YORK CITY

Seven-Story Storage Warehouse Occupying Block in New York City Badly Damaged by Flames.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Jan. 17.—The seven-story warehouse of the Terminal Storage Company occupying a whole city block near the north river water front between 27th and 28th streets and containing merchandise valued at more than $10,000,000 was swept by fire early today.

The fire was discovered a few minutes after midnight. It was not under control until 6:54 o'clock when the loss was estimated at $1,250,000. Five alarms sounded in quick succession summoned to the scene practically every available piece of fire fighting apparatus from all Manhattan, and this was reinforced by five fire boats.

The Terminal Storage Company's warehouse was of brick and concrete and was regarded as one of the most modern structures in that part of the city. Seven stories in height it was the largest structure of its kind in New York and one of the largest in the world. The fire started in the warehouse compartment of the building and worked its way through the five walls to the timber section. Both these sections were destroyed. The fire being between them the other compartments held firm and the loss is therefore confined to the two firms named above. There was no loss of life but two firemen were seriously injured.

CIVIL SERVICE MEN TO HAVE STORMY SESSION

Meeting Which Opens in Washington Tomorrow Promises to Air Disputes on Pension Bills.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 17.—Civil service employees, including the men who draw pay from Uncle Sam for their work in the post office, custom houses and other branches of the Government service throughout the country, are flocking into Washington to attend a meeting of the National Civil Service Employees Association, which is working to secure retirement pensions for civil service employees.

The meeting promises to be a stormy one. While all the members of the association are of one mind so far as the desire for pensions goes, they are of widely diverse views in regard to the style that should be adopted. Two systems are proposed in the bills now pending in Congress. That known as the Hummell bill provides for "straight pensions" paid out of the Federal treasury, while the Austin bill provides for pensions from contributory funds from the employees to which the Government will contribute a small percentage. The younger element of the employees favors "straight Federal pensions" for the reason that the time when they will benefit is far distant and in the meantime, under the contributory scheme, they would be obliged to give up a part of their salaries for many years in aid of the older employees who would become eligible to retirement. The older employees naturally are willing to support the system of contributory pensions, as they would be the first to benefit and also for the reason that Congress is much more likely to adopt a measure providing for such a system than it is to pass the bill calling for straight Federal pensions.

NORTH DAKOTA FIRST TO DECLARE CHOICE

Both Republicans and Democrats Will Declare Preference For Presidential Nominations March 17.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 17.—With the assembling of the party leaders in this city is expected that before the end of the present week some line may be drawn on the probable choice of the Democrats of North Dakota for the presidential nomination. From the fact that North Dakota will be the first state in the Union to declare its presidential choice this year, the eyes of both parties are naturally turned in this direction. The primaries will be held March 17, when both the Republicans and Democrats will vote at the same precincts as in a general election and will declare their preference for the presidential nomination by name. The Progressive Republicans have been actively at work for some time in the interest of the La Follette candidacy, but until the present week the Democrats have shown little activity. As North Dakota is one of the strongholds of the "progressive" movement it was thought likely the Democrats will incline more to Woodrow Wilson than to Jackson Harmon, though the Ohio governor has many warm admirers.

BLUE BOOK WILL BE A SMALLER VOLUME

State Publication To Be Issued Early Next Month Will Have 400 Less Pages.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 17.—The Wisconsin Blue Book for 1912, which will appear early next month, will be smaller than the 1909 by about 400 pages, or one-third of the former size. An edition of 46,500 will be printed. The name on the back of which 32,250 will go to members of the legislature. This is at the rate of 250 for each member. In former years each state officer also received 200. Under the new printing law they are allowed one each. Schools, state institutions and judges also share in the free distribution. For other applicants for copies a price will be fixed by the state printing commission. It will probably be $1 a volume. The disbursement of the books will be in charge of Supt. of Public Property William L. Eschmann.

Final proof-sheets, which have just been returned to the printer, show that the book contains 750 pages, exclusive of the index, making over 800 pages in all. The reduction, which the new law commanded, was effected by cutting out data about livestock, bookkeepers and kindred semi-official organizations, omitting the senatorial and assembly vote by counties, wards and precincts, giving only a summary thereof; cutting short the descriptions of state institutions; reducing the list of instructors and professors of the University of Wisconsin, and giving the state institutions' personnel only by their boards and officers. Because not all the data was received from Washington in time, the census report on Wisconsin is incomplete in the new book.

A reading of the advance sheets shows that Wisconsin had 1,200 post-offices in June, 1911, that the population of the state for 1910 is 2,335,816, a gain of 12.8 per cent for the decade that the state's railway mileage is 7,455.95 for 1910, as against 7,419.19 for 1909; that there are 23,624 Wisconsin pensioners, who draw $1,261,666.25; that 10,465 teachers are employed in counties outside of cities under city superintendents and that in such schools there were 305,497 pupils between the ages of 4 and 21 years. The book contains a list of newspapers and periodicals published in Wisconsin, revised up to July 1, 1911, and an outline history of the state, edited by Dr. R. G. Thwaites, and brought down to the end of 1910. The blue book is edited by the state industrial commission.

INSURRECTION TAKES PLACE ON CRUISER IN GUAYQUIL HARBOR

Shells Fired Upon Ship From Shore Batteries—Inhabitants Seek Refuge.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Jan. 17.—There was a panic here at midnight owing to an insurrection on board the cruiser Bolivar, whose officers and men have hitherto supported the provisional government of General Montero, but who have now transferred their allegiance to the Quito government. Shells were fired upon the Bolivar in the direction of the gunboat Tarqui as she was returning from the harbor of Duran with the detachment of troops to this city. The Tarqui also carried some of the cannons belonging to the cruiser Bolivar which she was about to land here. The inhabitants took refuge wherever they could find shelter fearing a battle was about to occur between the cruiser and the land forces. The Bolivar raised her anchor and took up a position in front of Duran in order to intercept any fresh contingents of Guayaquil troops from reaching Duran. The Catalpa gunboat has remained loyal to the Guayaquil government. The panic continued this morning as seven pieces of artillery posted in the northern part of the city are trained on the cruiser Bolivar but the vessel immediately surrendered.

SOCIAL UNION VOTES FOR COMMISSION FORM

STRAW BALLOT TAKEN SHOWS SENTIMENT OF MEMBERS IS ALMOST UNANIMOUS.

OPPOSITION IS GRILLED

Alderman Buchholz and C. W. Grant Upheld Council.—Hendricks, Matheson and Biles, Commission.

That Janesville should adopt the Commission plan of government was the sentiment of the members of the Social Union which was expressed almost unanimously by a straw vote taken following the presentation of papers last evening in which both sides of the question were well presented. The few who favored the negative side did not exhibit the courage of their convictions—not rising when the negative vote was called for.

With one exception the program was carried out as announced. T. O. Howe, who had been designated as one of the speakers to uphold the present form of city government, was unable to be present as he was out of the city, and his place was taken by Alderman Buchholz. C. W. Grant was the other speaker to take that side of the question. Both presented the same papers read before the last meeting of the Men's Club of the Baptist church at the request of the program committee which had experienced considerable difficulty in securing speakers to support the commission form.

Concentration Danger.
Mr. Grant stated that he had a strong bias in favor of Commission government, but that he had consented to take the negative side by his paper because it needed exposure. His argument was to the effect that the concentration of large powers in the hands of a few commissioners opened the way to tyranny, misrule, and graft; that the political boss would fasten his tentacles over more freely through having but few to "buy" or intimidate, and with such voters exhibiting such neglect, incompetence and gullibility that they permitted the election of such men as Lorimer and Lee O'Neil through good, competent men as commissioners. The fact that the caliber of candidates has changed for the worse under the primary law, and that the political boss is as strong as ever, were witnesses to that fact.

The speaker declared that there were plenty of five hundred dollar men who would run for commissioners, but that men competent and worthy the commissioner's salary of $2,000 already had good jobs and could not be persuaded to leave them. He was of the opinion that all hope of reforming the city government depended upon the enlightenment of the electorate.

Council Needs No Defense.
The chief argument against the Mayor and Council system, said Alderman George Buchholz, "seems to be the aldermen. I am not going to uphold the present council. It does not need any defense on that score. Its acts as a matter of public record open to the inspection of all."

"Commission government is an encroachment upon democratic government, little suspected as such because it does not restrict the suffrage. City government is politics rather than business; politics in the good sense of giving people an opportunity to express their desires and carrying the expression of these into effect. The Commission form overrules completely the orthodox principle that there must be checks and balances in government, abolishing the greatest safeguard against corruption and misrule. The referendum and initiative are expensive and inefficient makeshifts for representative government. People do not vote on questions submitted to them in this manner. The result is a door to political corruption and ring rule."

Gave Summary of Law.
A terse, pithy, and straight-to-the-point summary of the provisions of the Wisconsin Commission government law was given by Attorney A. B. Matheson. Among the provisions expounded not so generally known were the prohibition of license holders from exercising as commissioners, the non-qualification of candidates to residents of the city; and the fact that in cities of 10,000 and over, commissioners must devote their entire time to their official duties.

New commissioners take office the third Tuesday in April and the primaries for the nomination of candidates are held two weeks before the election. Petitions to have names placed on the primary ballot must be filed twenty days before the primary is held. There can be only two candidates for mayor, and four for the commissioners at the first election; one commissioner being elected every two years afterward.

On taking office the commissioners assume all the duties, rights and privileges of councilmen held under the former charter of the city.

Scholarships of commissioners can be increased by special election only.

Appropriations made by the council immediately preceding may be revised or rescinded.

Attorney Matheson asked the apprehension that a city clerk under the Commission system might refuse to honor a petition for recall of a commissioner by stating that the clerk must do so, as the law made it obligatory upon him when the petition was duly drawn and signed.

Elections on referendum or initiative questions cannot be submitted more than once in six months.

The speaker, in stating his personal convictions, declared that he was heartily in favor of Commission government. The evils of the present were those of the system and not primarily of the men. He held in high esteem a number of the members of the present council.

CROP IMPROVEMENT MEETING TOMORROW; EXHIBIT CAR HERE

Prof. R. A. Moore Will Give Address at Mass Meeting at Two O'clock.—Large Delegation of Farmers Expected.

Hundreds of farmers from the various townships in Rock County, land owners and business men, are expected to be present at the big crop improvement meeting and demonstration which will be held in this city tomorrow morning and afternoon. The important meeting of the day will be held at two o'clock in the afternoon at the city hall when Prof. R. A. Moore of the state agricultural college at Madison will give an address and when an attempt will be made to organize a society in Rock County for the improvement of grains.

Prof. Moore's subject will be "How to Obtain a Larger Return From the Soil of Rock County." He will deal primarily with the subject of grains in this connection treating especially barley, oats, winter and spring wheat, and rye. He will discuss the matter of seed selection, rotation, and fertilization, and other related topics with a view of instructing the farmers how to get a greater return from their lands.

The demonstration car which will be open to the public free of charge will arrive at the St. Paul depot at 10:30 tomorrow and samples of all kinds of grain of different varieties, corn, barley, oats, wheat and rye, will be shown, and a practical demonstration of selection of seed, treatment of seed for smut and other diseases, will be given by competent men in charge of the exhibition.

Other matters of importance regarding the planting, growth, harvesting and marketing of the crop will also be treated and pamphlets on the various problems which confront the grain raiser will be distributed. H. E. Kreuger of Beaver Dam, Dodge county, will have charge of the car and the demonstrations. Mr. Kreuger was recently given the world's honors for raising barley and is prominent as a grower of other Wisconsin grains.

He suggested that farmers who care to compare their own seed grain with the samples on exhibition, bring samples of their own product with them and have them examined by the seed experts on the exhibition car. It is planned to accommodate as large a number of farmers and others interested in the demonstration as possible. Janesville has been selected as one of the first places to be visited owing to the prominent place which grain raisers in Rock county have secured at exhibitions and shows, one of the recent men to receive honors being A. Austin who resides on Milton avenue, awarded second prize on his barley at the recent Browers' conference where Mr. Kreuger was awarded the first prize in a world competition.

Yesterday's demonstration and lectures were held at Plattville and were with pronounced success. Farmers are becoming more and more interested in this important matter.

K. L. Hatch, superintendent of the agricultural extension University of Wisconsin, will also be present, with the exhibition car, and at the meeting.

LINK AND PIN DECEMBER'S INJURY TOTAL SHOWS FALL

Chicago & Northwestern. Year of 1911 Less Marked by Accidents During December than Was Same Month of 1910.

The report of the Northwestern road of the injuries and deaths for the month of December 1911 show in all but two cases a considerable decrease over this month last year and one of these cases they remain just the same. This has been so in all of the reports for some time and shows the effect of the safety appliance and precautions which the safety committee in the various places have been working to get installed. The largest decrease in injuries is in the train service where there were 116 less during the month of December. In 1911 than in 1910. There is a total of 210 less injuries this year than last, and four less deaths. Among passengers there was an increase of fifty in the injured and one killed to none last December.

Following is the list of accidents in all branches:

HEAVY TRAFFIC NOW FOLLOWS COLD WAVE

Railroad Employees Are Working Over-time These Days to Handle Increased Freight.

Everybody who works at the roundhouse or yards these days is impressed with the idea that business is keeping up well. In fact, it is keeping up so very well that no one has time to get hardly. One engine after another is called out and the shop force just manages to finish one rush job in time when another is brought in and they start all over again. About twenty-two trains went out yesterday compared to the ten or eleven, which sometimes run in a duller time of the year. A number of extra men will be employed if they can show the proper abilities and those who at present hold jobs are earning their money if they ever do. The eaters have no many crowns to call out all day long that they don't get time to eat.

Although some considerable goods were handled through the cold weather the railroad men have refused to handle any more than was necessary as there was too much danger of freezing. Since the cold wave has been going north and all of the traffic which was held up during the freeze-up is now being rushed to its destination, while at once in another rush of cold weather should hold up shipments. The freezing of engines, which was so popular a pastime for three or four days when the mercury ran down below ten degrees, has ceased to trouble the trainmen and the freemen are taking advantage of the first rest they have had in two weeks.

Foreman Simpson had a narrow escape from serious injury the other day in the roundhouse, when he attempted to tighten up a steam plug on one of the engines which was jammed up. Instead of tightening the plug, which was held up during the freeze-up, he was badly scalded by the steam. If he had happened to be in front he might have had a new roundhouse foreman, at least for a little while. As it was Mr. Simpson was laid up for the rest of the day and is still bothered by his sore arm.

Switchman Lightizer is enjoying a few days' hunting at Lake Koshkonong and expects to return to work within a week or so.

Conductor Anderson is laying off on account of sickness and is being relieved by Conductor McCarthy.

WON'T CERTAIN WAY TO END A BAD COLD

Surely breaks the most severe cold and ends Grippa misery in just a few hours.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pope's Cold Compound taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken will cure Grippa or break up the most severe cold, either the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

You distinctly feel the cold breaking and all the disagreeable grippa symptoms leaving after the very first dose. It promptly ends the most miserable headache, neuralgia pains, dizziness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pope's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippa.

Take this harmless compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end grippa misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25 cent package of Pope's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

TWO GAMES TO CUBS
WON FROM DODGERS

Cubs Lost One Game Last Night by Margin of One Point—Wolcott Has High Score.

It was nearly three straight for the Cubs in their contest with the Dodgers at Hockett's alleys last night as the only game they lost was by a margin of one point. The other games were easy wins for the Cubs who rolled ahead of their opponents by a margin of 75 plus in the first game and 35 in the last. There were no very sensational scores made by any of the players but consistent work was shown by the Cubs. Wolcott of the Dodgers had highest score, 177. Scores ranged as follows:

POSITION FOR MOLL AT MONTANA SCHOOL

Star Wisconsin Quarterback Considers Offer as Coach at Montana University.

(Special to this Gazette.)

Madison, Wis., Jan. 17.—John (Keeble) Moll, Wisconsin quarterback, has been offered to take up the coaching of the University of Montana football and basketball teams next fall. This job formerly was held by Albin Lindley, a one-time Wisconsin star. Moll is holding off the offer in the hope that he may land the berth that has tentatively been offered him in the Wisconsin coaching staff. This offer came from the agricultural college in addition to coaching.

Another Wisconsin player whose work has attracted offers of coaching jobs is George E. Roberts of Fox Lake, Wis. "Big" has refused the position at a Seattle, Wash., college. Many critics picked Roberts as the greatest tackle in the west last year. His first two years of college football were spent at Ripon. He is likely to pull an air in the varsity shell again this spring. Ex-Captain Buser was elected to work on the track.

ANOTHER SKI TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD AT STOUGHTON.

Skiers of National Reputation Will Stop at Stoughton on Way to Chicago.

Stoughton, Wis., Jan. 17.—Taking advantage of the fact that a host of the world's best skiers will pass through here on their way to the national ski meet at Chicago, Stoughton has arranged to hold a ski meet that will rival the national. Prizes nearly as great as those of the big meet have been offered, and as special inducement the club offers its scaffolding, the steepest incline used by any skiers on earth. Five hundred dollars will be given out in prizes to the best skiers of two continents.

Champions of America for five years past and two European experts will compete here Jan. 24. Besides the two Norwegians, there are six other Norwegians, recent arrivals who are competing for the first season of American ski hills. All officers of the National Ski Association will attend the Stoughton meet. Special trains will run from Madison, Beloit and Janesville.

Baseball Notes. Lee H. Bice of Winona, Minn., has resigned the presidency of the Minnesota-Wisconsin League.

Michael Walker Johnson, the Washington star, won more than twenty games for his team last season.

John J. Carney, veteran player, manager and scout, has been chosen baseball coach at Phillips Exeter Academy.

The Southern League has lost its star umpire in Bill Carpenter, who has signed with the American association.

Spoke Shannon, one-time New York Giant and last season a member of the Kansas City team, has retired from the game.

Trainer Joe Quirk will have charge of the Boston Red Sox players. Joe formerly worked for McAleer in St. Louis and Washington.

The Keokuk club, of the Central association, has signed 50 players for next season. This is certainly some signing for a minor league club.

Another old star has quit, Del Howard, the former Chicago-Louisville player has retired from the diamond and purchased a farm in Oregon.

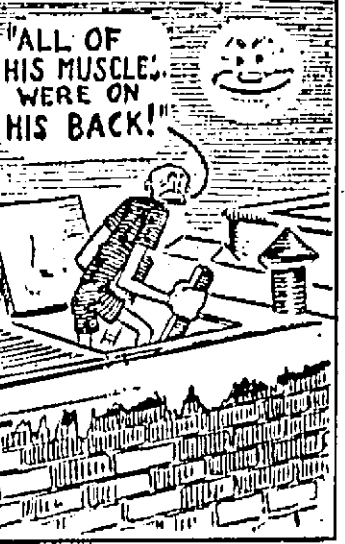

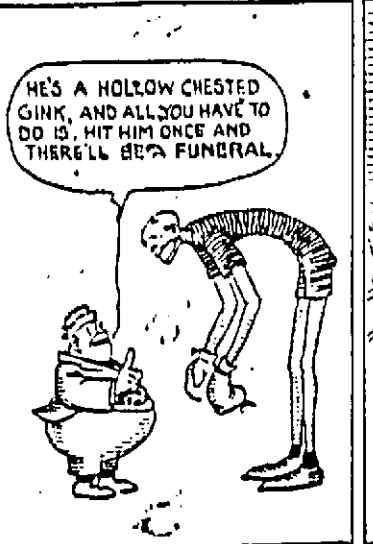

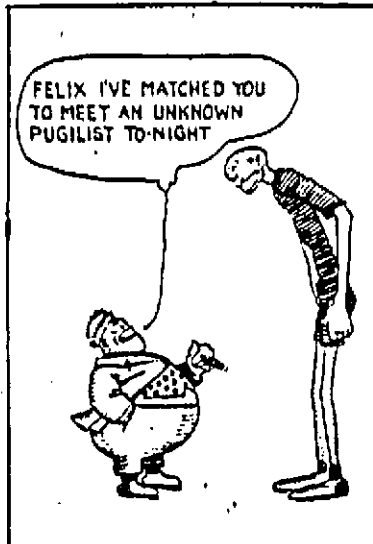

President Dr. Carson will abandon his large practice in the interests of baseball and will hereafter give all of his time to the Central league.

Five of the eight teams in the American league have changed managers since last October. Connie Mack, Hugh Jennings and Rube Wallace are the only pilots of 1911 who are still on the job.

John M. Ward, president of the Boston Nationals, is against playing baseball on Sunday, and the Pilgrims will not take part in any Sabbath day games if the new official of the South End club can arrange with the other league managers.

Harry (Slim) star pitcher of the Cardinals, has signed the pledge, "Slim" always had the number of the National league batters any time he was halfway right, and if he rides on the cart next season he will put many a game in the win column for Roger Bresnahan's boys.

It is said that two archaeologists, Prof. Whittle, of Berlin and Hogarth, of London, have dug up in northern Syria tablets or slabs, that show that a game similar to baseball existed in out city council, but said that their choice for good was nullified by the others and the clumsiness and inefficiency of the system.

SOCIAL UNION VOTES FOR COMMISSION FORM

"The change is not liable to be for the worse, I know from personal experience in the council how clumsy and slow the methods are and the evils engendered by the ward system."

He referred to the installation of voting machines in Janesville. It was first proposed to buy only two and give them a trial but one of the aldermen was determined that all the wards must have them or none. His proposal carried.

"Conditions have come to such a pass that if one ward gets an arc light, all the other wards must have one too, whether they need them or not. This is but one illustration of the vicious influence of the ward system."

Attorney Matheron declared that he did not permit his concern over suitable candidates for commissioners to worry him at this time. The thrusting of that issue to the front at the present time was inappropriate and an attempt to bring the real issue, the adoption of the commission system.

Checks and Balances. "The checks and balances of the present system, we are told," said Attorney C. J. Hendricks in opening his talk, "are its crowning virtue. I am of the opinion that the city has no balance on the right side of the books and that the aldermen have the checks. I am also of the opinion that some of the light thrown upon commission government by its opponents in this city is electric light."

Two stories were told by the speaker to illustrate the promptness and absence of red tape in conducting business under the commission form.

He related the experience of a Des Moines man to get damages for the drowning of some chickens by the bursting of a water pipe in his cellar. He first applied to his alderman who sent him to the city engineer. He in turn referred him to the city clerk and he went from one official to another in vain, finally being sent back to his own alderman.

"Well," said the complaining citizen, "what am I going to do about it now?"

"I think you had better raise ducks," replied the alderman.

The other story was of the attempt of a Milwaukee corporation to rectify an error in the assessment of property at Houton. Their attorney was sent down prepared to frame and get signatures to a petition, "Rx" the alderman if necessary and go through the usual expensive proceedings of getting business done with a city. To his surprise he found none of these things necessary and was able to complete in one day by direct appeal to the commission what he expected would require weeks of work to accomplish.

Mr. Hendricks defended the backers of commission government from the charge of being seventy-five per cent sold to know seventy-five per cent of them, and that most of the contributions were of ten and three dollars and few over five. These were given by men in all walks of life who had nothing but the city's best interests at heart. He outlined generally the benefits which had inured to cities which adopted commission government, giving especial attention to Houton.

Promises for Janesville.

H. F. Bikes said, in part: "The city of Janesville, like every other city is composed of three classes of citizens—the good, the bad, and the indifferent. The good are so good that many of them fear contamination, and so shrink all responsibility in the affairs of home government. The only public question which interests them is the license question—for they regard the saloon as the one and only evil."

"The bad, while in the minority, are active workers, and usually successful."

"The indifferent class holds the balance of power, but their influence is nil, because dormant. They can tell you what ought to be done, but never turn a hand to aid in the work. The city has a registered voting population of about 3,500. The average vote at a city election is about half that number, and yet the city election means more to the citizen than either the state or national. It has to do with our pocketbooks and our morals, with our social and home life. In fact, it touches us at every point, in difference is the cause of our public ills, and responsible for the diseases which afflict us.

"The bane of city government is ward politics. Men who aspire to represent their wards are selected, not because of ability, but because of local popularity. They enter the city council, not to serve the city, but to serve their ward constituency. They vote in the interests of the men who elected them, and the city as a unit is forgotten in the scramble to serve their home ward. If a lamp is wanted on a dark corner, every ward in the city must have a lamp, or there's nothing doing. If a score of day laborers voted right, they must have a place on the pay roll, and so the stone crusher is kept busy, and pensioners are paid to lean on their shoulders in the streets and parks. That's a part of the political game and one of the symptoms of disease."

"Have you ever asked yourself the question, 'What is the stone crusher, and why?' The stone crusher is a rat hole for the taxpayers' money, and has been since the day it was installed. The why is because it is a part of a political machine which will continue to do business until legislated out of office by the commission plan of government. It has been run for a dozen years or more at the expense of good streets. The money invested in poor material and the city service would have given twenty miles of brick pavement, and as many more miles of good macadam."

"This question, 'How long do you think a board of commissioners would have taken to decide what to do with Washington street, not more than fifteen minutes, and the work would have been done while the council was scrapping about it. That's ward politics in concrete form."

"If the Wisconsin law was like the Oregon law it would provide for the elimination of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners, and the School Board, but it does the next best thing by placing a commissioner on each of these boards, and also giving the Mayor authority to remove and appoint at will. This may seem automatic, but it is right and will result in better service in both departments."

"There are some problems connected with municipal government that have always been perplexing, and are more so today than they were half a century ago. One of them is the saloon. It is difficult for some people to realize that the saloon, licensed by a city, has as much right to exist as any other line of business, yet this is true."

"While we are frank to admit that there are all kinds of men engaged in other lines of business, we are positive in our belief that the saloon has but one class of representatives, namely: bad—very bad—possessed of no respect for and but little fear of the law. Then we load him up with competition, because we want his license money, and tempt him to resort to all sorts of devices to make a living."

"I am not here to defend the saloon, but I recognize the fact that the business is a part of the city's equipment, and likely to be for many years to come. The statement has been made that the saloons are opposed to the Commission plan of government. This may be true of some of them, but I believe that there are a respectable number of saloon men in Janesville who are law abiding citizens, and who would welcome any form of government which would contribute to the general welfare of the city."

"I can see nothing in the Commission plan of government which this class of men have to fear. If, in time, it should inspire respect for wholesome regulation, these men have everything to gain and nothing to lose."

"I believe that the Commission plan of government is Janesville's opportunity to take a long stride forward. It will relieve us of the bane of politics, an incubus with which we have long been afflicted. It will give us a business administration, such as we have never enjoyed. It will bring together more closely the units of population, and inspire loyalty through mutual helpfulness."

Council Not Sovereign. F. B. Richardson, who gave the only informal talk of the evening, commented the idea that common councils were possessed of sovereign and important legislative powers. All of them he said were created by the state legislature which had the power to abolish them at any time or make any change they saw fit. The powers of the common council were essentially administrative. Mr. Richardson advocated compulsory voting as a cure for neglect of the duties of citizenship.

"Woman's Suffrage" Next Topic. "Woman's Suffrage" was voted to be the topic at the next meeting of the Social Union, and Mrs. J. B. Humphrey was chosen leader. The subjects to which it was chosen in preference were "Rights of Capital and Labor," and "Political Issues and Leaders." The meeting last evening had the largest attendance of the season.

Pious Suicide. It was stated at an inquest held at Lindfield, Sussex, England, that prior to committing suicide, Edward Lambert read the burial service himself and recited the hymn "Auld Wyle Me."

THEATERS

THE AUTHORS OF "LOUISIANA LOU."

Addison Burkhardt, Frederick Donaghey, and Ben M. Jerome, and "What They Have Been Doing in the Theatre and Elsewhere."

In the old-days of the La Salle Opera House, Chicago—it was called the La Salle Theater then—and $1 was the highest price charged for a seat, whereas $2 is now the charge—the musical comedies produced there were generally written by three men, Addison, Hough, and Howard for some seasons provided all the plays and music; there were intervals when other comedies tried the task of supplying fun and times for the most critical clients in the world of musical comedy. But there was a return to the three-man idea when Harry Aksh took over the management of the La Salle in 1910. Three men wrote "Louisiana Lou" which will be played by Mr. Aksh's special company on Friday evening, January 19, in the Myers Theatre.

The authors of "Louisiana Lou" are Addison Burkhardt and Frederick Donaghey, who wrote the play and songs, and Ben M. Jerome, who provided the music. All three have been associated with the La Salle at its best.

Thus, Mr. Burkhardt wrote the first of the La Salle hits. It was called "Chow Chow" when he wrote it, and "The Runaways" when, later, it was staged in the New York Casino, being the first of the Chicago hits to get a New York hearing on its merits. As "The Runaways," it was played for seven years on tour, and has probably been seen in every city and town of the United States and Canada.

Mr. Burkhardt returned to the La Salle in 1910, under the Aksh banner, to write the libretto of "The Sweetest Girl in Paris," which ran there throughout the season of 1910-1911. His collaborator on that success was Joseph E. Howard, of the Adams, Hough and Howard trio.

Mr. Donaghey became Mr. Burkhardt's collaborator in March, 1911, when the two authors associated with them Mr. Jerome, who had given some big musical hits to the La Salle repertoire. Among the Jerome pieces that scored there and had long Chicago runs and great success on tour were "The Isle of Bong, Bong," "The Royal Chef," "The Isle of Spice," and "The Yankee Regent."

This trio, Burkhardt, Donaghey and Jerome, worked steadfastly and in perfect unison and harmony on the play, songs and music of "Louisiana Lou" until it went to rehearsal, and then, instead of turning their back on that important period in the preparation of musical comedy worlded every day for six weeks in conjunction with Frank Smithsonian, the famous stage director, in getting their work ready for the public.

"And this is the secret of the success of 'Louisiana Lou,'" said Harry Aksh, the managing-director of the La Salle, when called before the curtain of his theater on the Chicago opening night of the piece—"the fact that these men, the authors, began their work in time, and kept at it until it was finished, and did not demand too much on their actors. The result has been, as you see tonight, that there has been something for the actors to do, whereas in the average musical comedy the actors are expected to supply the fun, and the singers are looked to get for themselves good songs because the composer is too lazy or indifferent to work in harmony with the actors."

"I am confident, here midway in the first Chicago performance, that 'Louisiana Lou' will prove to be the greatest hit of any musical comedy ever produced in Chicago; and I unhesitatingly give credit to the Messrs. Burkhardt, Donaghey and Jerome."

MANY COMPLAINTS
HEARD BY BOARD AT THE SESSION

Taxpayers Who Object to the New Assessment Take Opportunity to Make Affidavits of Excesses.

While the most interesting points in the re-assessment of the city property, that of the water power rights and their values, have not yet been taken up, the Board of Review is still busy with smaller matters while attorneys for some of the big corporations are preparing their statements and figures to come up at a later date.

N. L. Carle, who appeared before the board this morning and gave testimony in an effort to reduce the valuation of store stock of the late George Simpson this afternoon asked that his testimony given be erased and declared his complaint removed.

The stock in question was held by him as executor of the Simpson estate and sold by him last May to Hal Kenting. The assessment on the stock was raised from $5000 to $5000. Mr. Carle protested the increase, claiming it was excessive in explaining his reason for withholding the complaint he stated that in making his complaint he had overlooked items in the will of sale. Mr. Kenting was called to testify.

M. G. Jeffris made a complaint that the assessment of his home was too high and requested that it be reduced from $25,000 to $15,000.

M. Quirk appeared before the board and protested the valuation of a small tract of farm land on Eastern Avenue. The complaints mentioned are practically all that were brought to the attention of the board this morning.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEAR
RECITAL LAST NIGHT

Readings of Mrs. Hoffman Proved Very Pleasing—Interpretation Showed Rare Talent and Expression.

Pleasant memories of Mrs. Hoffman's "Parafal" recital last season brought out a large audience last night at Library Hall to hear her in an evening of musical readings under the same auspices—the Woman's Club of the Congregational church.

While the selections given were, in themselves, perhaps not quite so uniquely interesting, yet in the rendition of Waller's "Duetto," in which both music and reading suggested the humorous air, sunny skies and love-trader of many names, all voiced in that reminiscent quality somewhat difficult to sustain, Mrs. Hoffman showed that she had lost none of her power of subtle expression.

The group of Love Lyrics given with a dainty touch, and the tragic heart story of the old monk gave further opportunity for her rare qualities of interpretation, enhanced always by her charming personality and discriminating taste.

The "Cradle Song" with which he responded to an enthusiastic encore, was a delightful bit of piano music.

BOXED JONATHANS ON LOCAL MARKETS

Eggs Will Not Go Down Until Warmer Weather Encourages Hens to Start Laying Again.

If the Record Herald may be taken as an authority, Chicago grocers and egg dealers ought to be getting rich within a few weeks. In local markets the farmers are receiving from 20 to 31 cents for their eggs, after which, in some cases, the buying agent gets perhaps one or possibly two cents a dozen, and an express charge of one cent makes a total of from 22 to 34 cents a dozen. This is what the grocer is often compelled to pay for his eggs which he sells for 35 cents, making a profit of only three cents. Besides this he has to stand the danger of having at least one broken egg, which entirely wipes out his profit in the deal. When the Record Herald printed the prices in Chicago where grocers make six cents a dozen, it made local dealers wish they had a store in the White City. Almost any price will be paid by Chicago grocers, however, for strictly fresh eggs, in any quantity. Too often the poultrymen use a few bountiful eggs themselves to fill out a dozen when their hens are not laying as well as they should. Taken altogether the price of eggs is up because the hens do not lay well these days and not because of any combine of the dealers.

Boxes of fine looking western Jonathan apples are on the market today at $1.50. These boxes, containing two hundred apples, are grown in the famous Payette Valley, Idaho. Other prices remain almost the same today and summarize as follows:

Vegetables.
Carrots—2¢ lb.
Paranips—2¢ lb.
Potatoes—90¢@1.00.
Spanish Onions—8¢ lb.
Sweet Potatoes—8¢ lb.
Cauliflower—20¢.
Green Peppers—5¢ each.
Squash—15¢@20¢.
Yellow onions—4¢ lb.
Cabbage—6¢@10¢ a head.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.
The area of high barometer that was in the lower Mississippi Valley yesterday has moved eastward and is now over the Atlantic. It is still unusually cold in the Southeastern states, and freezing temperatures prevailed this morning as far south as southern Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia.

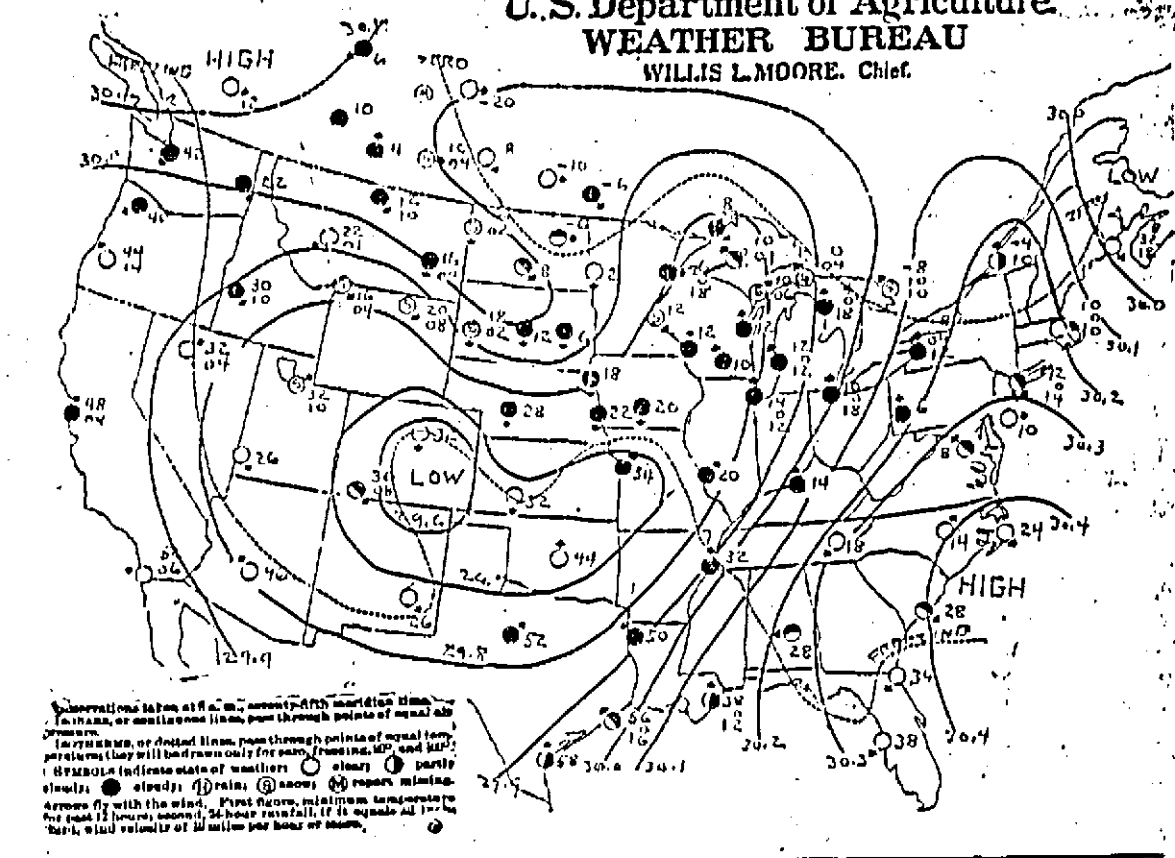

The barometric depression that was in the northern Rockies yesterday has moved southward and eastward, and now extends in crescent form from Wisconsin southward over the Mississippi and Missouri valleys and the southern plains to the northern Rockies. It is causing milder weather throughout the central states, but is followed by snow and colder weather in the northern Rockies.

In this vicinity it will continue cloudy tonight and Thursday, probably not below zero.

This Advertisement is Directed to the Man Who is Intending to Purchase a Motor Car

You know that the pasture on the other side of the fence always looks the greenest. The pasture farther away looks better than the one on which you are standing. But when you cross the fence or move to the farther pasture you find it no better and in many instances worse than the one you vacated.

In purchasing a motor car the moral is the same—you can do better at home. The men who sell you a motor car are right here on the ground to back it up; personal service and interest are extended and you know what you are getting; you don't buy your motor car out of a book, but from actual knowledge of what the car will do and how it will behave under any condition, shown to you by actual demonstration. You get an up-to-the-minute car; no "has-beens" that have "fluked" out, are handled by local men.

At this garage you can see cars eminently suited to your purse and taste—famous cars. Your every idea of a motor car is exemplified in the following line of cars we handle:

Overland Marmon National Cutting Flanders
E. M. F. Wescott Stoddard-Dayton Haynes Marion

Before you buy any car—know the above thoroughly. You can be absolutely sure when you buy one of these cars that you are getting a car of unsurpassed quality. It will pay you to investigate.

WOMAN'S PAGE

HEART AND HOME TALKS BY BARBARA BOYD

An Unwise Way to Choose Friends.

YOU know the woman who catalogues you, the minute you lay eyes on her. She is the one whom you can hear saying mentally, "That's only a six dollar willow plume;" who takes a second keen look at your collar, to see if it is real Irish or imitation; who decides about how much your fur coat cost; and who, by the time her eyes reach your shoes, has added you up, labeled you, and put you away in a corner of her brain for future use. And when she has need to think of you for social or other purposes, she brings you out of this niche, looks at the label she has affixed, and decides by it whether you are worth knowing or not.

The woman who catalogues is everywhere. Almost every social circle knows her,—and endures her,—perhaps. The clever woman laughs at her. The shy woman shrinks under her glance. The average woman is indifferent to her. For the fact of the matter is, the woman who thus catalogues others does not gain anything worth having by the transaction. Rather, she is apt to lose. For the knowledge she gains in this way is of little value, and her action is likely to arouse antipathy in those she thus pillories with her eyes. So it is not a profitable proceeding.

For the question as to whether a woman is a desirable acquaintance or not, is not determined by the coat of her willow plume, nor the richness of her fur coat. And the woman who makes acquaintances on this foundation is not going to secure thereby the truest joys of friendship. The woman who is dressed the simplest has often the real worth of character that makes for joy in companionship. And as for the woman herself who catalogues, she shows by her action some lack in her own character. And thus women with deeper, fuller natures are not attracted to her. And she loses on both ends.

So it will be seen, that the cataloguing process is not the best way when making new acquaintances to discover those from whose intimacy will come the truest pleasure. Study the face that is under the hat, and see if kindness and sunshine and a sense of humor lurk there. Try to discover the qualities of the heart that is beating beneath the fur coat. These are the things to look for if a woman wants the truest and deepest acquaintance from new-found acquaintances. If the cataloguing spirit is creeping into character, or has already secured a foothold there, crush it out at once. It is a quality not to be desired. Its fruit is hard and bitter and unloving. It is neither pleasant nor nourishing. The woman who commences catalogues others, and chooses her friends by the result of this scrutiny, will find she has few friends that add anything of real value to her life.

The Evening Chit-Chat BY RUTH CAMERON

"SHE is always thoroughly courteous," I heard one woman say about another, the other day, and somehow it came to me with a new force, how every much that meant.

Courtesy, it seems to me, in the highest sense, means complete respect and observance of the rights and comforts of others. Now, how many people could qualify under that definition as always thoroughly courteous?

No person can be thoroughly courteous who goes into a crowded place with hat so large and so decorated with protruding feathers or hat-pins as to make other people uncomfortable, or even endanger their eyesight.

No person who allows himself to have a bad breath can be called thoroughly courteous. Think of the discomfort he thoughtlessly causes.

No one who stops suddenly in the middle of the sidewalk without thinking what effect he may have on others can be called thoroughly courteous.

No person can qualify in that class who has a harsh, rasping voice and does not make any effort to overcome it.

No person could possibly be called thoroughly courteous who uses a party-line telephone for twenty minutes or half an hour on a stretch.

No one who is habitually or even frequently late to appointments could possibly be considered a model of courtesy, no matter how perfect his manners in all other particulars. Punctuality, you know, is the A B C of politeness.

No one who, either because he is living beyond his means or because of carelessness, leaves bills, little or large, unpaid for weeks and months, could by any stretch of imagination be called thoroughly courteous.

No one who deliberately travels at rush hours, when that is not necessary, can pretend to perfect courtesy.

No person who habitually disregards the rules asking him to use certain exits and entrances in a car, and hampers traffic by getting in or out of the wrong door, is courteous at all.

No person who carelessly holds a wet umbrella so that it will dampen other people's clothing, is perfectly courteous.

No person who keeps a book which has been loaned him for weeks and even months beyond a reasonable time is in the courtesy class.

No person who is always trying to keep the conversation on topics pertaining to, and of special interest to himself, is really courteous.

"Where your neighbor's rights begin, there yours stop."

Only the man or woman who thoroughly appreciates that definition and lives up to it and perhaps a bit beyond it, qualifies, in my opinion, for the distinction of being called "perfectly courteous."

It's a larger order, isn't it?

But I don't think it's too large.

Do you?

Thought for Today By MRS. ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE

SPECIAL EXERCISES.

FLESHY people should make sure of their pulse. If we stand well, we can carry much more weight becomingly, than if out of plum. The accumulation of flesh about waist and abdomen is sometimes due to bad pulse, and can be removed by correcting it. A relaxed state of the muscles makes them an easy prey to the storage of flesh. The long period of inactivity after childbirth makes the mother an easy victim of corpulence. When the waist and abdominal muscles are made to do their share of the work in holding the body erect, their normal tone sometimes overcomes the abnormal accumulation of flesh. I have known women to decrease the size and increase the length of the waist inches, by just acquiring correct poise. That usually it calls for greater effort.

Where special exercises are taken for the prevention and reduction of the accumulation of flesh about the waist and hips, the most advantageous time is in morning before breakfast, and night, before going to bed—five, ten, fifteen minutes, according to the strength and need. The exercises to be effective must be hard work, but should not tax the endurance. Take the exercises a little factor than is natural, a definite number of times—multiples of five are little factor than is natural. The program should not be so hard as to discourage, nor easy as to be of no use; just a little more than you like, enough to make you feel triumphant when the task has been accomplished.

This is a simple but excellent exercise for the purpose: Lying flat on the back, lift both legs at right angles to the body; repeat ten, fifteen, twenty or more times. In the same position, lift legs alternately a number of times.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Advantages of Papering. Easy.—Following Good Taste not Fashion.

By Alice E. Whitaker

A saving is always made in buying what other people do not want provided it fits your needs. At this season almost no one wants painting and papering done and in conse-

However work being slack at this season it is possible to have these repairs done at a specified time without disappointment or days of waiting and living a sort of camp life.

Usually the housewife gets the benefit of a discount on the regular price and the contractor for the work is helped to keep him busy.

It is well to have a mind of your own when selecting wall paper and not be influenced too much by what is in fashion. If the room is low, and wood work dark, a large figured dark paper is a bad choice, also any plan of dividing the wall by a deep ceiling paper. Something in stripes or with a light ground is better. But if the room is high and rather small a divided effect is good. Consider the furniture and pictures also. If the furniture is mahogany avoid a brown paper but with oak select brown or green in tints or deeper color as the conditions warrant.

If there are many pictures select a plain paper of unobtrusive tint, like a light sage green or a deep cream color and what is called an "animal paper" makes a soft, rich ground. Avoid a high glazed paper or one with bright flowers or old flowers. Colling papers are not so fanciful as formerly but are often plain. As a rule the quarter or third upper part of the side wall is papered with the same kind as the ceiling thus avoiding a third variety as was for some time.

Chintz and floral patterns are always suitable for bed rooms making it possible to use colors that will please the occupant. Use a little judgment in selection. For instance, old people do not always like violets and blues and often would be better pleased to look upon pink roses, the morning glories or red tulips than the purple in even the loveliest shades and which are supposed to be the appropriate colors for age.

The fair haired girl will be likely to appreciate lavenders and purples and will think of small draperies and spring green ribbons in delightful combinations.

Years ago a wall paper was pasted directly over the old and several layers would accumulate on the walls. These were not sanitary but people thought little of such things at that time. Today the old paper is scraped from the walls leaving them entirely clean before the new paper is put on.

When this is done the floor should be protected lest it be spotted, and good papering always have a stout cloth for covering floors. After the work is done there will be some drops of paste on the wood work and many a newly papered room is disfigured because these were carelessly wiped off by drawing a wet cloth along next to the paper and rubbing the colors together.

EMBROIDERY AND SATIN.

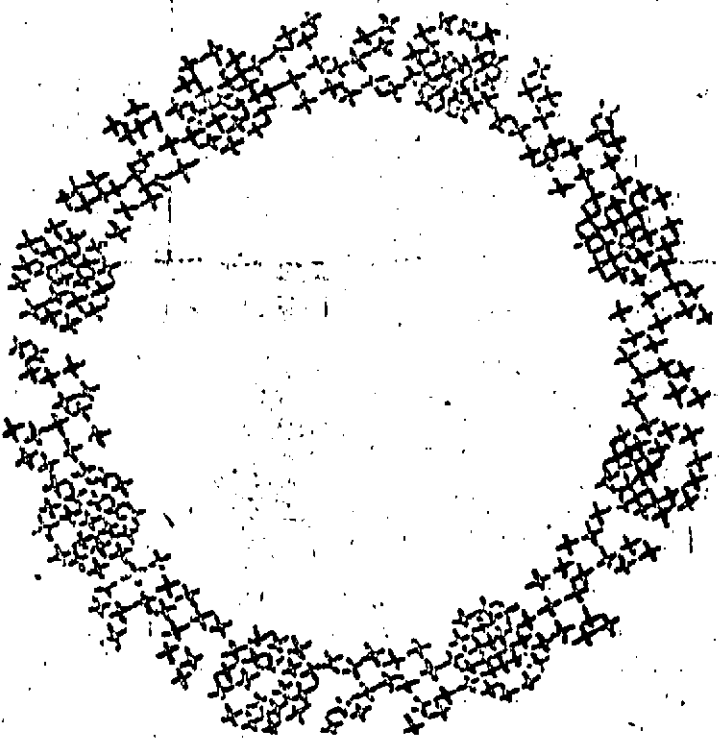

A combination of materials new this season is batiste embroidery and satin put together attractively in manner shown in sketch. In this costume the foundation was a lovely shade of pale rose satin and the embroidery a deep, rich cream. The arrangement of embroidery is exceedingly pleasing, especially on the bodice, which suggests the peasant blouse with a peplum of embroidery flouncing. This makes a charming gown for warm-weather affairs at country clubs, resort hotels, etc.

FRENCH MOURNING HAT.

Direct from Paris comes a mourning hat and veil combining grace and smartness. If one may be allowed to use such terms as "mourning" hat, it is one of the high-pointed crowned and close-fitting turbans formed of folds of crepe, and finished on side with a large rosette of crepe, under which the veil is fastened. The blouse shown is also part of the mourning costume. The material is a dull black velvet, with trimmings of crepe. The entire collar and little bow are of crepe, and the high waist line is held in place by a band of crepe and dull black buckles.

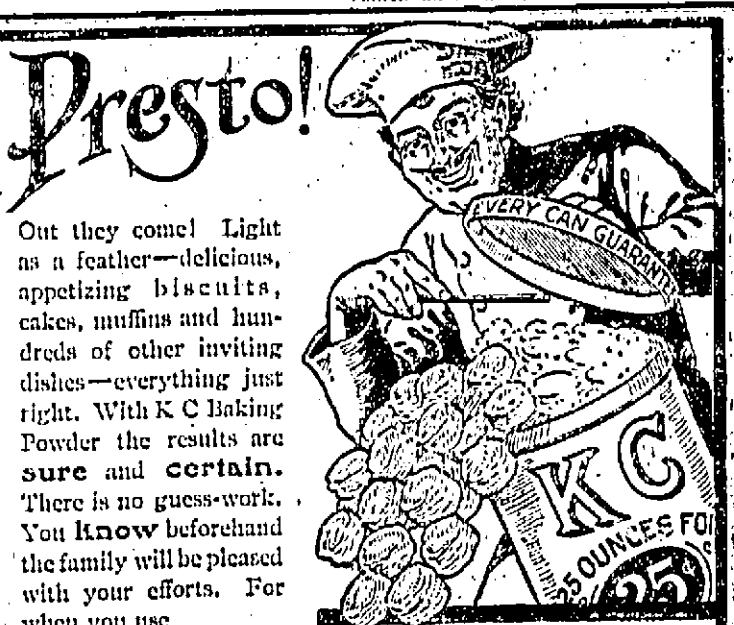

CROSS STITCH WREATH FOR DOILIES OR TOWELS.

A cross stitch wreath is a charming motif for doilies or towels. The initials may be worked in the center if desired. All the stitches which plant in one direction should be done first and then crossed by those which plant in the opposite way, always working from left to right. Mercerized cotton No. 14 should be used.

If rooms are small it is the worst of mistakes to prefer each papered in a different way for this suggests a series of boxes. If two small rooms and a reception hall are covered with the same paper there is a suggestion of spaciousness and it is noticeable that in many large and handsome houses this uniformity in papering is followed.

WAYS OF SERVING CHICKEN.

Chickens are not now so expensive that one may not feel extravagant to serve one occasionally.

Braised Chicken.—Dress, clean and truss a four-pound fowl. Fry two slices of fat salt pork, cut one-fourth inch thick, then add five slices of carrot cut in small cubes, one-half a sliced onion, two sprigs of thyme, one sprig of parsley, a bay leaf, and cook ten minutes. Add two tablespoonsful of butter and fry the fowl, turning often until the surface is well browned. Place on a trivet in a deep pan, pour over the fat, add two cups of water or chicken stock. Cover and bake in a slow oven until tender, basting often.

Serve with a sauce made from the fat in the pan.

Maryland Chicken.—Dress and clean and cut up two small chickens. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and dip in flour, egg and crumbs; place in a greased dripping pan and bake thirty minutes in a hot oven, basting after the first five minutes' cooking, with a third of a cup of melted butter. Arrange on a platter and pour over two cups of cream sauce.

Fried Chicken, Southern Style.—Cut up the chicken at the joints as for serving, plunge in cold water and white wet dredge with flour, salt and pepper, having as much flour adhere to the chicken as possible. Try out a pound of fat salt pork, cut in pieces, and cook the chicken in this until tender and well browned. Serve with a white sauce made of half milk and cream.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

A LEARNED KING.

By A. W. MACY.

Frederick II of Germany was a highly educated man, and unusually intelligent. He was a perfect master of six languages. He was a zoologist and an ornithologist, understanding the structure and habits of animals and birds. He was the author of a book on falconry. He understood medicine, and was a practical surgeon. He was a liberal patron of learning, and founded the University of Naples. In addition to all this he possessed rare literary taste, and his culture and refinement mark him an exception among kings.

VEGETARIAN AHEAD AGAIN.

That a simple diet, excluding meat, will maintain greater endurance than a mixed diet, including flesh, is again proved by the test under the direction of Dr. Anderson of Harvard. When the Buffum brothers started to walk across the continent there was a difference of only three pounds in their weight. At Denver Warren H., who eats about the same food as his brother, exclusive of meat, showed a gain of 15 pounds. This corresponds with the views frequently expressed in these Hints and the results are of all similar tests in England and Germany. The same results will appear from tests of the influence of complex diet on mental capacity. To exclude meat is not to give an ideal diet, but that is the most important improvement that can be made.

A GREAT RECORD.

Hard to Duplicate It in Janesville Scores of representative citizens of Janesville are testifying for Doan's Kidney Pills. Such a record of local endorsement is unequalled in modern times. This public statement made by a citizen is but one of the many that have preceded it and the hundreds that will follow. Read it:

Mrs. Emilia Hall, 542 Franklin St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I suffered terribly from pains through the small of my back and limbs and I also had trouble from the kidney secretions. Someone finally advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I did so, procuring them at the People's Drug Co. The contents of two or three boxes corrected my trouble. I hope that the publication of my statement will induce other kidney sufferers to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial." (Statement given in August, 1908.)

RE-ENDORSEMENT.

Mrs. Hall was interviewed on September 23, 1910 and she said: "You may continue to publish my former statement regarding Doan's Kidney Pills. Since I used them two years ago, I have had no further need of a kidney medicine."

A LIBERAL OFFER.

We Guarantee to Relieve Dyspepsia. If We Fail the Medicine Costs Nothing.

To unquestionably prove to the people that indigestion and dyspepsia can be permanently relieved and that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets will bring about this result, we will furnish the medicine absolutely free if it fails to give satisfaction to any one using it.

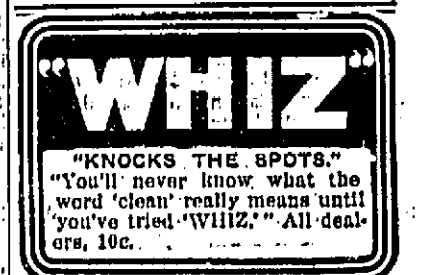

The remarkable success of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is due to the high degree of scientific skill used in devising their formula as well as to the care exercised in their manufacture, whereby the well-known properties of Bismuth-Subnitrate, and Pepsin have been combined with Carminatives and other agents.

Bismuth-Subnitrate and Pepsin are constantly employed and recognized by the entire medical profession as invaluable in the treatment of indigestion and dyspepsia.

The Pepsin used in Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is carefully prepared so as to develop its greatest efficiency. Pepsin supplies to the digestive apparatus one of the most important elements of the digestive fluid. Without it the digestion and assimilation of food are impossible.

The Carminatives possess properties which aid in relieving the disturbances and pain caused by undigested food. This combination of these ingredients makes a remedy invaluable for the complete relief of indigestion and dyspepsia.

We are so certain of this that we urge you to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets on our own personal guarantee. Three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at our store—The Rexall Store, The Smith Drug Co., 14 West Milwaukee Street, Janesville, Wis.

It's Me for Olive Tablets!

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and Calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing laxative.

No gripping in the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated tablets.

They cause the bowels and liver to act normal. They never force them to unnatural action.

It is easy to compel bowel and liver activity for a time with calomel and nuxy, sickening, gripping castor oil, but the after effects are dangerous, and the real cause of the trouble is often not even touched.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are so easy to take that children do not resist them as "medicine" at all.

If you have a "dark brown-a dull, now and then-a dark brown-a dull, tired feeling-sick headache-torpid liver and constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Olive Tablets at bedtime. They're perfectly harmless.

"Thousands take one every night just to keep right. Try them.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a little movement all its own."

Opportunities Always Present.

"It is not a single opportunity which comes to a man, it is a train. It is a never-ending procession, some small and more insignificant as the years flow on, but ever and always opportunities too numerous, too great, and too large for us to utilize fully."—Prof James, University of Illinois.

MAYOR OF WAUKEGAN WOULD DEFEND PLAN

OFFERS TO ANSWER A LETTER PUBLISHED BY OPPOSITION FROM WAUKEGAN CITIZEN.

TO MAKE AN ANSWER

Will Send Article Regarding Working of System in Waukegan Which Will be Published Later.

Mayor J. E. Hillender of Waukegan, Ill., one of the editors under commission rule, in answer to a communication recently sent to him from Janesville writes as follows:

I received your communication of the 11th and attached thereto a news paper clipping of a letter that had been published as stated by you in the morning edition of one of your daily papers, written by H. A. Grady of our city to the Waukegan Journal, relative to how the commission plan of government is working out at Waukegan, Ill.

I also note that you request me to have one of our best business men write a letter to the Janesville Daily Gazette and sum up the practical advantages that have accrued to our city by reason of the adoption of the plan. This I will do and you will not doubt be in possession of the communication in the course of a day or so. I am enclosing an article I wrote for one of our daily papers here which you might use in part. It does not corroborate in any way what Finley's friend Grady has to say.

Will you note I have invited the public to come to the city hall for a verification of mine. This was two weeks ago, as yet Mr. Grady has not been down. Why does he not come here and disprove my statements? When I wrote this article I was not defending any member of the commission nor was it necessary to their defense in figures, had already been made against me like Grady, who if you please are far in the minority here.

Right here let me suggest that you send a committee to Waukegan comprised of two or three from both sides of the question to investigate who this man Grady is and what he is and what accomplishments he has made for himself or his undertakings for others. From the tone of his letter to Mr. Finley one would think that he was some important factor around here.

I am not going to say what he is, but will be willing to leave it to the judgment of the committee I suggested. Now his statement that I favored the adoption of commission government at Waukegan will surely be new to our people here for they all thought that he opposed it. In fact I was as close in touch with the campaign and the feeling of the people as anybody in our city and I find Grady sized up as one of the opposition to the plan and so did all others interested one way or the other. But then that is Grady which the committee no doubt would learn on their trip here should they decide to come.

I understand that Grady has been engaged to deliver an address by the opposition to the plan. If he does, we know whom and I will try and come along with him. Possibly he might not feel disposed to hear all of the misrepresentation upon the working out of the commission plan here at Waukegan as he did in the letter to Mr. Finley.

In closing I offer to take Grady's letter to Finley upon the platform before the citizens of Janesville, Wis., and discuss its contents with him. Will he come?

Yours most truly,
J. F. HINDINGER.

P. S.—I am mailing you the entire paper and not just my article as I stated I would do. Note editorial of editor also what commission of streets and improvements under commission plan has to say and others.

My unexplained reference to conditions as they existed when we assumed the duties of our office was that we were filled with the payment of $40,000 in bills—understand not municipal bonded indebtedness but unpaid bills accumulated under the old form aside from about $120,000 in municipal bonds also 150 percent warrants issued against the next tax levy to the limit. I claim during our term of office under commission form Waukegan will be on its feet, discounting all purchases.

Michael Kull, our popular oil man, from Beloit, was four days late making his rounds. He assured that it was not because of the cold but to help out a local coal dealer in his difficulties that he gave up his own work for a few days.

A number from here watched the ski practice at Big Hill Sunday P. M. The people gathered around the slide could be seen for a distance of two miles, in some directions.

Helene Chrono spent two nights the first of the week, with friends in Beloit, rather than brave the early morning cold and wait for interurban cars.

Most people are occupying themselves at home keeping their cellars and houses warm. Oil stoves are quite the style in cellars these days. One man reports that he has 75 bushels of frozen potatoes in his cellar. This is not the only part of the country "hard hit."

U. G. Walte at Riverdale, Cal., states that Dec. 25 the thermometer went to 16 degrees above zero and the estimated loss to oranges, lemons and grape fruit, in and around Riverdale is approximately $14,000,000. The grape problem is now, whether the groves can be saved.

SCORING OF FOWLS STARTED BY JUDGE

KEELER BEGAN HIS WORK YESTERDAY AND FINISHED LONG LIST OF ENTRIES.

BIRDS STILL ARRIVING

Several Large Shipments Received Today and Yesterday—Part of Entry List—Is Quality Show.

Judge Keeler started his work yesterday and by night finished the work of scoring White Rocks, White, Silver, Black and Partridge Wyandottes. Many watched him at the work which was very interesting. The start was made on white birds because the light was fairly good and today might be cloudy.

More Birds Arriving.

Birds kept coming all day and the last lot consisting of 30 fowls was due this morning from Dousman, Wis. The big entry from Oakwood Farm, Cary Station, Ill., is on display. This string of White Rocks and White Leghorns was at the Chicago show which shows that Janesville can draw birds of the very best quality, birds that are fit to show in the largest shows in the country.

Sales Reported.

Sales of birds started yesterday and there will be some large sums expended before the week is over. One of Jack McVicar's Orpingtons cocks sold for $50.00, to Dr. Goddard of Argyle. Many other such fowls are on exhibit and the public ought to see the display in order to realize the extent of the poultry business.

Show Appropriation Fee.

Mr. McKenzie of Madison, who is Assistant Secretary of State, is expected this week. When he comes the matter of a larger appropriation for poultry shows will be taken up. As it is now the amount is small and Janesville expects to have more funds from the state next year. The state has gone into the poultry work and last year graduated one man in this course and he was sent to a $2,000 position.

List of Entries.

The list of some of the fowls and those exhibiting in the class is as follows:

Barred Rocks

Wm. McVicar, Janesville, Wis.; Theo. Schmitt, Watertown, Wis.; Mrs. J. Holt, Janesville, Wis.; W. H. Ashcraft, Janesville, Wis.; Mrs. R. D. Warner, Whitewater, Wis.; John Schuler, Janesville, Wis.

Silver Partridge Wyandottes.

Emory Green, Janesville, Wis. Other classes will be listed later.

Quality Show.

The consensus of opinion seems to be that the show this year has more quality than any show ever had in any section of the state. Without a doubt this is the largest exhibit that will be held in Wisconsin this year, and according to the best critics, the birds here are worth at least $10,000 or more.

The Red class has a fine display as has Barred Rocks. Bantams are out in full force and the crowds that admire them are large. There is one bantam that weighs 10 ounces and is a full grown specimen. Across the aisle is a light Brahmin that weighs 12 pounds while down the aisle a little further is a large Bronze turkey that tips the scales at 32 pounds. Many remark that he would at least make a good family dinner but when they find that he is worth $25 they do not care to buy him for that purpose.

Many attended the exhibit yesterday and last evening. If weather conditions are at all favorable the balance of the week the officers look for a record breaking door receipt.

Among the ancient mariners the wildest superstitions were rife, but their beliefs in the existence of enchanted spots, such as the island of Salpas, or of those islands which Siblad likened to the Gardens of Paradise, were more picturesque and romantic than the gloomy and prosaic imaginings which occupy the mind of the modern seaman.

FRECKLES

"It means," said McLean despondently, "that I know what he wants, but it is as far removed from my power to give it to him as it would be to give him a star. The thing for which he will die is not to have me."

"Then you must prepare for the end very shortly," said the surgeon, turning abruptly away.

McLean caught his arm roughly.

"Look here!" he cried in desperation. "You say that as if I could do something if I would. I tell you the boy is dear to me past expression. I would do anything—spend any sum. You have noticed and repeatedly commented on the young girl with me. It is that child, that he wants! He worships her to adoration, and knowing he can never be anything to her, he prefers death to life. In God's name, what can I do about it?"

"Hearing that musing hand, I never handled a flower man," said the surgeon, "and she seems perfectly devoted to him. Why cannot he have her?"

"Why?" echoed McLean. "Why? Well, for a good many reasons. I told you he was my son. You probably knew that he was not. A little over a year ago I had never seen him. He joined one of my lumber gangs from the road. He is a stray, left at one of your homes for the friendless here in Chicago. When he grew up the superintendent bound him out to a brutal man. He ran away and landed in one of my lumber camps. He has no name or knowledge of legal birth. The angel—we have talked of her. She has needles and crosses back to Plymouth rocks and across the sea for generations back of that. She is an idolized, petted only child, and there is great wealth. He sees it more plainly than any one else could. There is nothing for the boy but death if it is the angel that is required to save him."

"The angel stood between them. 'Well, I guess not!' she cried. 'If Freckles wants me all he has to do is to say so, and he can have me.'"

"That he will never say," said McLean at last. "And you don't understand, angel. I don't know how you came here. It wouldn't have had you here for the world, but since you have, dear, you must be told that it isn't your friendship or kindness Freckles wants; it is your love."

"Well, I do love him," she said simply.

McLean's arms dropped helplessly.

"You don't understand," he retorted impatiently. "It isn't the love of a friend, or a comrade, or a sister, that Freckles wants from you; it is the love of a sweetheart. And if to save the life he has offered for you you are thinking of being generous and impulsive enough to sacrifice your future—in the absence of your father it will become my plain duty, as the protector in whose hands he has placed you, to prevent such rashness. The very words you speak and the manner in which you say them proves that you are a mere child and have not dreamed what love is."

"I have never had to dream of love," she said proudly. "I have never known anything else in all my life but to love every one and to have every one love me. And there has never been any one so dear as Freckles. If you will remember, we have been through a good deal together. I do love Freckles, just as I say I do. I don't know anything about the love of sweethearts, but I love him with all the love in my heart, and I think that will satisfy him."

"Surely it ought!" muttered the man of knives and lancets.

"As for my father," continued the angel, "he at once told me what he learned from you about Freckles. He knew all you know for several weeks. That knowledge didn't change your love for him a particle. I think the bird woman loved him more. Why should you two have all the fine perceptions there are? My father is never unreasonable. He won't expect you not to love Freckles, or not to tell him so, if the telling will save him."

She darted past McLean into Freckles' room, closed the door and turned the key.

Freckles lay raised on a flat pillow, his body immovable in a plaster cast, his maimed arm, as always, hidden. The angel's heart ached at the change in his appearance. He seemed so weak, so utterly hopeless and so alone. She could see that the night had been one long terror.

For the first time she tried putting herself in Freckles' place. What would it mean to have no parents, no home, no name? No name! That was the worst of all. That was to be lost, indeed—utterly and hopelessly lost. The angel lifted her hands to the faded head and robed as she tried to face that proposition. She dropped on her knees by the bed, slipped her arm under the pillow, and, leaning over Freckles, set her lips on his forehead. He smiled faintly.

"Dear Freckles," she said, "there is a story in your eyes this morning. Tell me?"

Freckles drew a long, wavering breath.

"Angel," he begged, "be generous! In thinking of me a little, I'm so homesick and worn out, dear angel, be giving me back my promise. Let me go!"

"Why, Freckles!" faltered the angel. "You don't know what you are asking. Let me go! I cannot. I love you better than any one, Freckles. I think you are the very finest person I ever knew. I have our lives all planned. I want you to go to be educated and learn all there is to know about singing just as soon as you are well enough. By the time you have completed your education I shall have finished college, and then I want, she choked on it a second. "I want you to be my real knight, Freckles, and come to me and tell me that you—like me—a little. I have been counting on you for my sweetheart from the very first, Freckles. I can't give you up unless you don't like me. But you do like me—just a little—don't you, Freckles?"

Freckles lay whispering that the coverlet, his eyes on the ceiling and his breath wheezing. The angel awaited his answer a second, and when none came, she dropped her crimsoning face beside him on the pillow and whispered:

"Freckles, I—I'm trying to make love to you. Can't you help me just a little bit? It's awful hard all round. I don't know how, when I really mean it, but Freckles, I love you. I must have you, and now I guess—I guess maybe I'd better kiss you next."

She bravely laid her feverish, quivering lips on his. Her breath, like clover bloom, was in his nostrils, and her hair touched his face.

"Freckles," she panted, "Freckles! I didn't think it was in you to be mean!"

"Mean, angel! Mean to you?" gasped Freckles.

"Yes," said the angel, "downright mean. When one kisses you, if you had any mercy at all you'd kiss back, just a little bit. Now, I'm going to try it over, and I want you to help me a little. You aren't too sick to help me just a little, Freckles?"

CHAPTER XXI.
RECKING A BIRTHDAY.

FRECKLES' shadowy flat knitted into the coverlet. The child pointed ceilingward and his head rocked on the pillow.

"Wait a bit, angel!" he begged. "No giving me a little time!"

The angel rose with contrived features. She bathed his face, straightened his hair and held water to his lips. It seemed an age before he reached for her. She took his hand and leaned her cheek upon it.

"Tell me, Freckles," she whispered softly.

"If I can," said Freckles, in biting agony. "It's just this. Angels are from above. Outcasts are from below. You're a sound body and you're beautiful of all. You have everything that loving, careful making and money can give you. I have so much less than nothing that I don't suppose I had any right to be born. It's a sure thing—nobody wanted me afterward, so, of course, they didn't before. Some of them should have been telling you long ago."

"If that's all you have to tell, Freckles, I've known that quite awhile," said the angel stoutly. "Mr. McLean told my father, and he told you. That only makes me love you more, to pay for all you've missed."

"Then I'm wondering at you," said Freckles in a voice of awe. "Can't you see that if you were willing and your father would come and offer you to me, I couldn't be touching the soles of your feet, in love—me, whose people braved over me, cut off my hand, and threw me away to freeze and to die! Me, who has no name just as much because I've no right to any, as because I don't know it. When I was little, I planned to find me father and mother when I grew up. Now I know me mother deserted me, and me father was maybe a thief and surely a liar. The pity of me suffering and the watching over me has gone to your head, dear angel, and it's me must be thinking for you. If you could be forgetting me 'lost hand, where I was raised, and that I had no name to give you, and if you would be taking me as I am, some day people such as mine must be might come upon you. I used to pray every night and morning and many times the day to see me mother. Now I only pray to die quickly and never risk the sight of her. 'Tain't no ways possible, angel! It's a wilderness of your dear head. Oh, do, for mercy sake, kiss me once more and be letting me go!"

"Not for a minute!" cried the angel. "Not for a minute, if those are all the reasons you have. There are thousands of young couples who come to this country and start a family with none of their relatives here. Chicago, is a big city, and grown people people who would disgrace you and purposely leave you to die, that's one sure thing. Yet you will spend miserable years torturing yourself with the idea that your own mother might have cut off that hand. Shame on you, Freckles! Your mother would have done this!"

The angel deliberately turned back the cover, slipped up the sleeve and laid her lips on the scars.

"Freckles," she cried, "come to your senses! Be a thinking, reasoning man! You just must see it! Like breeds like in this world! You must be some sort of reproduction of your parents, and I am not afraid to vouch for them, not for a minute."

"And then, too, if more proof is needed here it is: Mr. McLean says that you are the most perfect gentleman he ever knew, and he has traveled the world over. Then there's your singing. I don't believe there ever was a mortal with a sweeter voice than yours, and while that is a point that does, just the little training you had from that choirmaster won't account for the wonderful accent and ease with which you sing. Somewhere in your close blood is a marvellously trained vocalist; we every one of us believe that, Freckles. (To be continued.)"

SAMPLE BOTTLE OFTEN PROVES BENEFICIAL.

Some time ago I was afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble and was unable to obtain any relief from other medicines so sent for a sample bottle of your Swamp-Root.

I received no much benefit from this small bottle that I purchased a large bottle of the drug. I continued the use of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root until I regarded myself as cured and am now in very good health. I recommended it to a neighbor who has used it with the same results.

I regard your remedy, Swamp-Root, as a preparation that will do all you claim for it.

could be wiped out in a lot of ways, and who would there ever be to find to whom their little children belonged? It's all so plain to me. Oh, if I could only make you see!"

She buried her face in the pillow and presently lifted it, transfixed.

"Now I have it!" she cried. "Oh, dear heart! I can make it so plain! Freckles, can you imagine you see the old Lumberlot trail? Well, when we followed it, you know, there were places where ugly prickly thistles overgrew the path, and you went ahead with your club and bent them back to keep them from stinging through my clothing. Other places there were great whining pools where lovely, snow white lilies grew, and you wished in and gathered them for me. Oh, dear heart, don't you see? It's this! Everywhere the wind carried that thistle-down, other thistles sprang up and grew prickles and wherever those lily seeds sank to the mire the pure white of other lilies bloomed. But, Freckles, there was never a place anywhere about the Lumberlot, or in the whole world, where the thistle-down floated and sprang up and blossomed into white lilies! Thistles grow from thistles and lilies grow other lilies. Dear Freckles, think hard! You must see it! You are lily, straight through! You never, never could have drifted from the thistle patch."

"Where did you get the courage to go into the Lumberlot and face its terrors? You inherited it from the blood of a brave father, dear heart. Where did you get the pluck to hold for over a year a job that few men would have taken at all? You got it from a plucky mother, your bravest of boys. You ended single handed into a man almost twice your size and fought like a demon, just at the suggestion that you could be deceptive and dishonest. Could your mother or your father have been untruthful? Here you are, so hungry for love, and started out that that equality for loving? You didn't inherit it from a loveless, heartless

A great deal of meaning can be derived from the heading "Made in Janesville." It means that the money spent in the manufacture of such articles, stays at home. That the capital for the manufacturing plants is invested here. That the men employed are Janesville men, and that all the profit derived from the manufacture of goods in Janesville will stay in Janesville. SIDEWALK SKETCHES

CLEOPATRA'S LOVE AFFAIRS

(By Howard L. Rahn.)

CLEOPATRA'S first husband was Julius Caesar, who discovered that all Gaul is divided into three parts: one part we have conquered, one part we are conquering, and one part we have yet to conquer. Caesar was of a very jealous disposition, and Cleopatra succeeded in introducing him to several new brands of gall that didn't have to be discovered at the expense of a whole empire. After a while, Caesar decided that he could live alone more cheaply without having to divide his salary with a large and noisy retinue of hired girls, so he gave Cleopatra his watch fob and the agent's discount on his school books and hired out as a Roman Empire. About this time Cleopatra met Marc Antony at a Leap Year party and proposed marriage in a seductive tone of voice. Antony figured around a little, and after inquiring into Cleopatra's ratings at the bank made up his mind to take a chance. They had a quiet home wedding, none but the immediate relatives of the contracting parties being present, after which they assayed the wedding presents and settled down to housekeeping at the expense of the bride. After Antony had lived with Cleopatra and her temper for a few weeks, he came to a sad and realizing sense of what he had bitten off and began to spell his first name with a "C" instead of a "K" in order to forestall the paragraphs of the day. He was originally called Marcus, but he wore off the last syllable whenever he started in to praise Cleopatra to himself. Cleopatra thought a great deal of Antony, and showed it in a very promiscuous and unpleasant manner. He used to say to her, "I was a great bore to have 210 pounds of riotous royalty hanging on my right clavicle just when I wanted to shave or dress for dinner. Antony finally drowned his troubles by stabbing himself several times in succession, in a whole-souled and enthusiastic manner. When Cleopatra read of Antony's death in the daily paper, she went out and rented an asp which was in a low state of health and allowed herself to be stung in a vital spot, this being the only instance on record where anybody stung Cleopatra and got away with it.

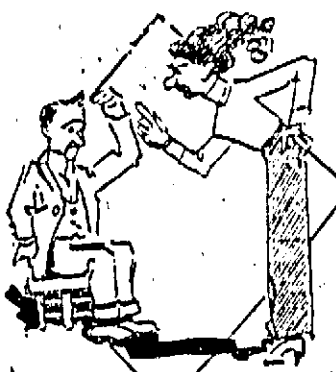

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

BY WALT MASON

He had tried a thousand capers seeking to embellish his name in the magazine and papers, but he got no grip on fame. As a bard he made no endeavor to achieve a large renown; people said his verse was clever, but the monthlies turned it down. The fight for fame was a-sailing till his plumes touched the skies, but his flights were unavailing, for some other won the prize. Many doodads he invented hoping fame would come his way, and the welkin oft he dented, but his speeches baled no hay. Fortune seemed unkind and brutal, all the world was dark and dour; all the stunts he tried were futile, and his soul was turning sour. While he tumbled, dejected, drooping, tired and weary of the game, others feathered past, kowtowing to the shining heights of fame. Then this most forlorn of editors, by some kind of shrill inspired, recommended these wretched ditties, and secured the fame desired. Now you can't pick up a journal but you'll see his rigmorole, how he suffered pains infernal till the ditties made him whole.

The servant girl who had been given an afternoon off to attend a matinee, returned unusually early. "Why," said her mistress, "you can't have waited to see the whole performance?"
